DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-13,15-18 and 30-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kuehen et al (USPN 6,165,183) in view of Cribier et al (USPN 4,777,951).

Kuehen discloses the treatment of a cardiac valve having leaflets comprising the steps of providing a sheath and catheter 126 apparatus having a releasable gripper/fastener 132 for securing opposing leaflets together. The valve deficiency is diagnosed using visualization with a transesophageal echocardiography or echocardiography (1:13-16). The assembly is surgically inserted through a site near the apex of the heart (12:54) while the heart is beating (12:29). Gripper 402 can temporarily secure leaflets while tack can be secured onto the leaflets (8:67-9:4). Kuehen discloses the method as claimed however Kuehen fails to teach the method of measuring the conditions of flow and pressure gradient before securing the fastener. Cribier teaches a method for treating a cardiac valve condition wherein a catheter 10 having means for measuring the pressure gradient across the heart valve that reduces the trauma to the blood vessels and provides a significant improvement in patient comfort (3:7-9). The catheter is inserted into the patients vasculature, the pressure gradient is measured to determine a baseline value, adjustments to the leaflets are made and the pressure gradient is re-measured, the procedure is then repeated again until the gradient has substantially decreased to a more desirable value (3:50+). Therefore in view of the teachings it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the treatment method disclosed by Kuehen by adding the pressure measuring feature as taught by Cribier in order to achieve desired flow conditions and pressure gradients through repetitive measurements while reducing trauma to the patients blood vessels.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 9-18 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
